

Built for First Nations
by First Nations

Team Introduction

Team: Our Experience

Phillip Stewart
Nolan Allan
Buck Nelson
Heather Bohn
Daniel Smith
Melina Laboucan-Massimo

From left to right:: Nolan Allan, Buck Nelson, Melina Laboucan, Phillip Stewart, Heather Bohn, Daniel Smith

A New Way to Learn

Explaining our product

4 Objectives

- Train Operators
- Give Resources for Efficiency on the Job
- Build a Framework that is Content Independent.
 - The Framework can be used for any other educational training
- Train Interns - Mentorship

Multi-Sensory Learning

- Learnign Styles:

The Senses

- Text
- Visual
- Audio
- Hands on

All styles together can create a better way of learning

- Our Product combines all 4 senses
- Using experienced based learning

System

- First Nation Water operators throughout B.C are able to access the Web site via the Internet.
- Through the forum, operators are able to help other operators.
- Intro video - motivation aspect
 - Learning Section - Overview
 - Explore Model
 - Hydrological cycle
 - Practice quiz
 - Resources - as-builts for example to be available

System

- A new way of learning
 - Class and our program, you can learn in a class full of people and learn in your own space at your own time
 - This will be available on DVD to take home
 - Arithmetic is about numbers, Math is simply about balance...
 - The math section has Interactivity
 - The math can be catered to jobs/careers in
 - Learn only what is necessary - Math specific to the task

System

Community

- Using the feature of google
- Operators can have bios
 - Operators able to upload content
 - Type of system
 - Specialty areas

Forum

- The forum is a place where more experience operators can help less experience operators

News and Events

- Community and Provincial News and Events
- Water operators conference

Review

- How this is a better way to learn - includes all multi-sensory levels of learning
 - This framework is content independent
- Motivates operators to get certified
- Provides additional resources
- Intern and mentor ship
- A NEW WAY OF LEARNING

Thank You